

Communication

Bill of Rights

I have the right to interact socially, maintain social closeness,
and build relationships.

I have the right to request desired objects, actions, events, and people.

I have the right to refuse or reject undesired objects, actions, events, or choices.

I have the right to express personal preferences and feelings.

I have the right to make choices from alternatives.

I have the right to make comments and share opinions.

I have the right to ask for and give information about changes in my life.

I have the right to be informed about people and events in my life.

I have the right to access interventions and supports that improve communication.

I have the right for communication acts to be acknowledged and responded to even when the desired outcome cannot be realised.

I have the right to access functioning AAC (Augmentative and Alternative Communication) and other AT (Assistive Technology) services and devices at all times.

I have the right to access environmental contexts, interactions, and opportunities that promote participation as communication partners with other people.

be treated with dignity and addressed with respect and courtesy.

I have the right to be addressed directly and not be spoken for or talked about.

I have the right to clear, meaningful, culturally and linguistically appropriate communications.
