The  Animal Welfare  Act  2006  protects  animals.

It  explains  how  owners  should  look after  animals.

This  includes  5  key  animal welfare  needs.

 Diet,  behaviour,  environment,  health and  companionship.

Give

your

pet

a

suitable

diet

and

fresh water.

Only

feed

the

right

foods.

Give

them

enough

to keep

healthy

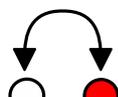

weight.

Too much

food

or

wrong

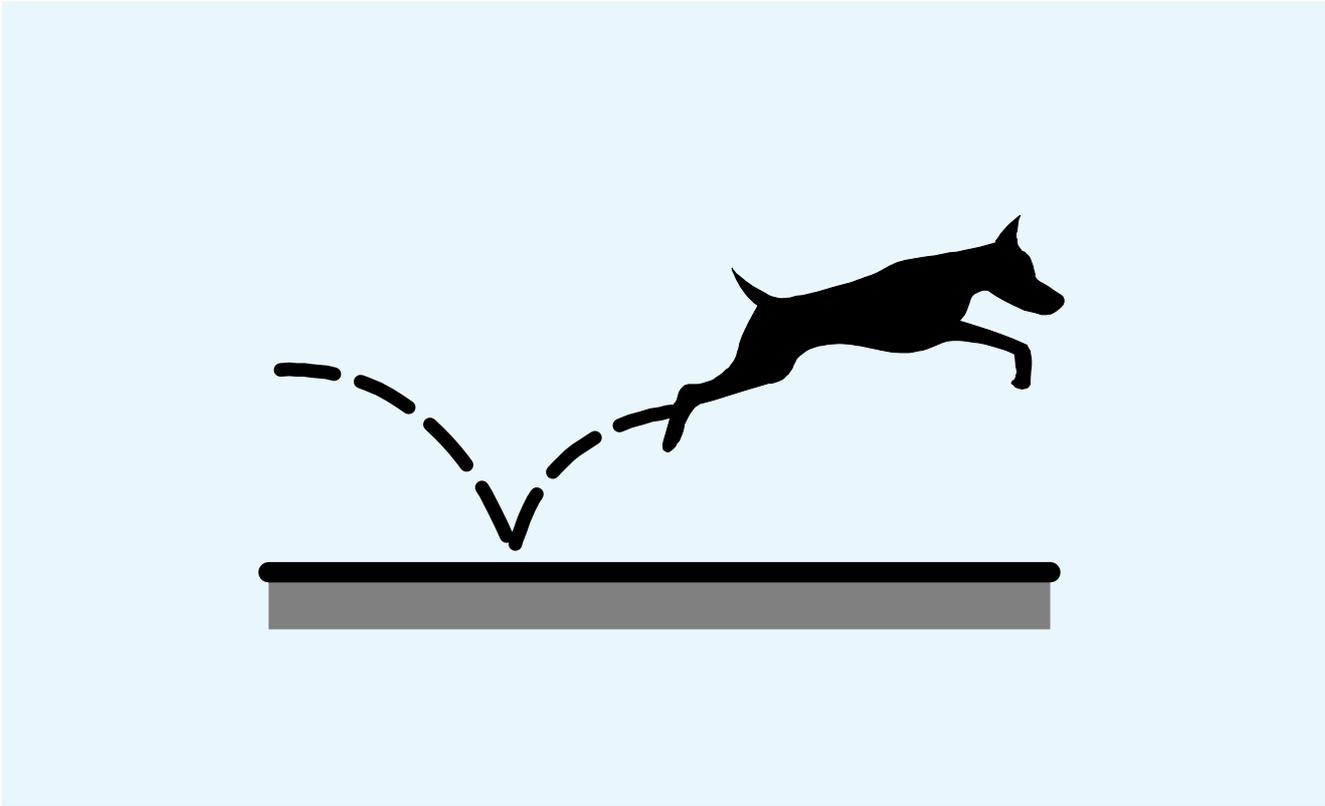

food

causes

illness.

Allow

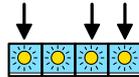

pets

to

behave

normally.

This

may

be

grooming themselves

and

walks.

This

could

running,

digging,

swimming

or

flying.

This

sleeping

in the daytime.

 Different pets need different environments.

 Exotic pets may need special animal equipment.

 Lizards and snakes need a heated reptile tank.

 Pets need space to explore, exercise and rest.

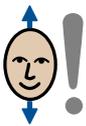

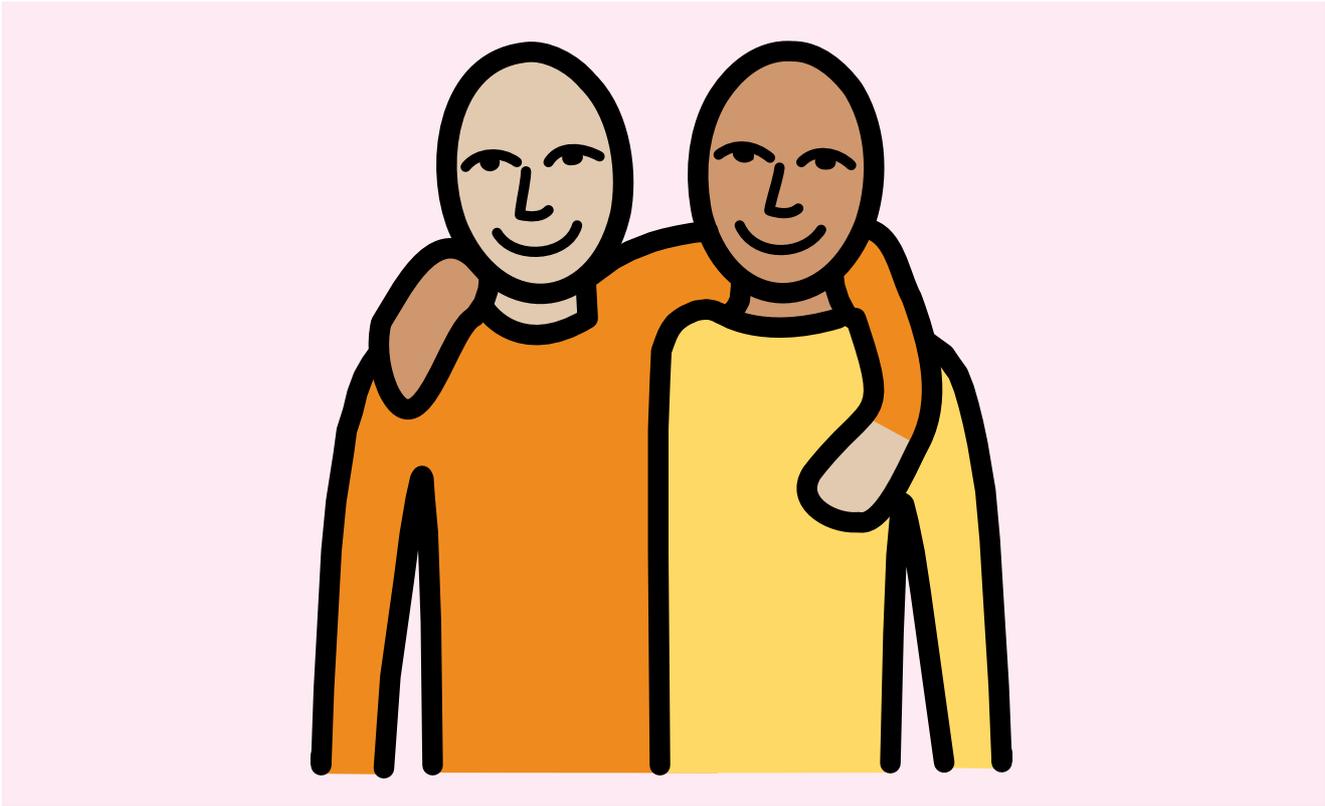

You must protect pets from injury and illness.

Give them a healthy diet and right exercise.

If pets become ill they must see a vet.

You must keep pets happy and healthy.

Make sure

pets

have

appropriate

companionship.

Sociable

animals

like

rabbits

like

to be together.

Solitary

animals

like

hamsters

like

to be alone.

Dogs

and

cats

need

more

fuss

than

snake.
